DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1, 4, 9 and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Krutchinsky et al. (US 20020148972).

In Fig. 2, Krutchinsky et al. disclose a MALDI pulsed ionizer 12 includes a laser 20 configured to pulse a sample located on a substrate 22. The laser 20 is focused on the sample through a lens 24 and a mirror 26 directs the collimated laser beam through a window 25 towards the surface of the substrate 22. The mirror 26 is preferably configured to be "wobbled" in order to scan the sample with the laser beam [0028]. It is inherent that a processing unit is used to operate the laser source and control the steering of the laser beam over the sample.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 2, 3, 6, 8, 10, 11, 14 and 16-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Krutchinsky et al. as applied to claims 1 and 9 above, in view of Hughey et al. (USPN 6707035). Regarding claims 6, 8, 14 and 16, in Fig. 5, Krutchinsky et al. teach placing samples to be analyzed on a sample stage arranged in a predetermined geometric pattern. However, they are silent regarding use of a mirror array comprising separate mirrors for X and Y motion of the beam.

In Fig 11a, Hughey et al. disclose a laser beam 1100 directed through a window 1102 in a sealed chamber containing a catalyst plate 1104. They teach that the catalyst plate 1104 can be stationary and provisions can be included for scanning the laser beam 1100 in either one or two dimensions using one or more moving mirrors (column 14, lines 50-54). It would be obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art that the X and Y scanning mirrors of Hughey et al. could be used to provide the scanning capability in the pulsed ionizer of Krutchinsky et al. and this would be desirable because Krutchinsky et al. teach the mirror 26 is preferably configured to be "wobbled" in order to scan the sample with the laser beam [0028].

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 5, 7, 13 and 15 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

6. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter:

With respect to claims 5, 7, 13 and 15, the prior art fails to teach or fairly suggest a method or apparatus for scanning a MALDI source support using a logarithmic spiral pattern.

Relevant Prior Art

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

USPN 6558902 to Hillenkamp teaches that target sites for a MALDI source can be arranged in any pattern, for example, in a line, a spiral, concentric circles, rows, or an array of rows and columns.

US 2004/0023410 published by Stacey discusses a MALDI sample deposited in a spiral.
